The EU leaders will meet on 20 and 21 October to discuss three major issues: migration, trade and Russia, including its role in Syria.

A lot has happened since we last met at the June European Council. 27 member states have initiated work on a common future and outlined a Bratislava roadmap, which helps guide the works of the institutions, said President Tusk in the invitation letter sent out on Tuesday. The best way to prove the relevance of the European project is to deliver on the concrete issues which matter most to our citizens, he added.
