Armenian friends are never honest, said Turkish Foreign Minister Mevlut Cavusoglu Nov. 19, answering the question of the Armenian member of parliament Koryun Nahapetyan during the 62nd meeting of the NATO Parliamentary Assembly, the Haber 7 newspaper reported.

Cavusoglu noted that politicians must be honest.

We may have different views, but, firstly, we must be honest, especially, if we are politicians, he said. It is a pity that Armenian friends are never honest.

How can you claim that Turkey supports the Islamic State terrorist organization? No country has so far neutralized as many IS members as Turkey did, added the foreign minister.

It is not fair to claim that we support the IS, said Cavusoglu in his response to the accusations of the Armenian MP that Ankara supports IS terrorists.
