

---

KAZAKHSTAN TO HOST TWO-DAY BLOCKCHAIN CONFERENCE IN JUNE

30.03.2017

---

Econotimes (29 MARCH 2017)

Astana, the capital of Kazakhstan, will be hosting Blockchain Conference Astana on 14-15 June, 2017. Kazakhstan has been chosen as the country has a great potential for development of the fintech industry.

BConference Astana marks as an international platform for the exchange of information and experience when implementing the best solutions in the blockchain world. The conference will also have a good chance to become an effective tool for communication of experts and achievement of set objectives within Digital Kazakhstan Program, the release said.

Keynote speakers of the conference include Georges Al Medawar, Vice President at Humanique; Oleg Strelenko, Founder, and CEO at eGaas; among others.

The blockchain conference will focus on key topics including potentials of blockchain technology for the financial environment such as solutions for banks, payment systems, money transfers, among others. It will also cover energy trading and renewable energy, smart grids and data tracking and analysis using the blockchain.

The conference will also include a tour on the second day to the unique Expo 2017 Future Energy complex, where exhibits from over 200 countries of the world will be presented.

The conference is open for representatives of the banking and financial sectors, managers, and owners of companies in the field of money transfers and exchange operations, energy companies, oil & gas sector representatives from around the globe, save energy companies, blockchain start-ups as well as representatives of public authorities at all levels.

The conference is open for registrations and the tickets are priced differently according to the requirements.

---

Kaynak/Source: