The Georgian delegation headed by Prime Minister Giorgi Kvirikashvili has left to Armenia today.

Armenian Prime Minister Karen Karapetyan welcomed the Georgian officials at the airport this morning.

Following the official welcome ceremony, the two prime ministers had a face-to-face meeting where Kvirikashvili and Karapetyan praised the long-lasting friendship between Georgia and Armenia.

PM Kvirikashvili has also scheduled a meeting with Armenian President Serzh Sargsyan.

It is noteworthy that this year the both countries are celebrating the 100th anniversary since gaining independence from Russia in 1918.
