The former ruling Republican Party of Armenia (RPA) on Thursday convened an executive body meeting, which was chaired by [REDACTED] chairman, ex-President, and ex-PM [REDACTED] Sargsyan, according to Zhoghovurd (People) newspaper.

Serzh Sargsyan gave assignments to the RPA members, in connection with things to do in parliament [where they still have majority], [but this time] as opposition.

He said that the RPA shall be a constructive opposition, and it shall not create inconvenient situations—with discourteous moves—for the new government, wrote Zhoghovurd.
