The latest report published by the Centre for Guns for Southeast Europe, supported by the UN and funded by the European Union, suggests that in 2016, Albania has exported 4.7 million euros worth of guns. Albanias exports of guns account for just 0.25% of the total of exports in the region. On the other hand, Albanias exports of guns to EU member states occupy 78.7% of the total or 3.7 million euros.

In this aspect, the only country that Albania leaves behind is FYROM with 2.1 million euros worth of exports. Montenegro is reported to have exported 5.1 million euros worth of guns, Bosnia and Herzegovina has exported 407 million euros worth of guns, while Serbias exports amount to 1 billion euros.
