A parliamentary committee on commerce, in a report tabled in Lok Sabha on Thursday, says trade with Asean countries faces the threat of China passing off its own goods as those from Asean countries. The committee attributes this to poor customs infrastructure at the border trade points in the northeastern region.

The northeast region is the gateway to Asean and of the Asean members, India shares border with Myanmar along four northeast states, Arunachal Pradesh, Nagaland, Manipur, and Mizoram. There are three land customs stations along the Indo-Myanmar Border at Moreh (Manipur), Zokhawthar (Mizoram) and Nampong (Arunachal Pradesh).
