ARMENIA'S PARLIAMENT FAILED TO ADOPT CHANGES TO ELECTORAL CODE

MediaMax (22 October 2018)

The National Assembly of Armenia has failed to adopt the draft amendments and additions to the Electoral Code at the extraordinary session today.

The draft received 56 yes and 3 no votes. It needed 63 MPs to vote yes.

The Republican Party of Armenia (RPA) announced earlier they would vote against the draft.

The proposed changes to the Electoral Code would secure a shift from ratings-based electoral system to a simple, proportional one, decrease the election threshold by one percent, cut down the election deposit, and allow the parliament to include four parties as well as alliances.
