High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, Federica Mogherini, said on Wednesday that she believe that 2019 will be the year of successes for Albania. She made this declaration at a joint press conference that was held in Brussels along with Foreign Minister Ditmir Bushati and EU Commissioner for Enlargement, Johannes Hahn. "Albania continues to play a constructive role in the region. We have been determined to prioritize security operations. The agreement between the Western Balkan countries and Europe is the country's strategy to advance. We will continue to work with Albania in order to meet all the conditions. We remain determined that 2019 will be a successful year for Albania as Albanian citizens want to," said Mogherini. Meanwhile, Bushati emphasized that in the framework of the integration process, the government is open and ready for dialogue with other political forces.
