Vestnik Kavkaza (31 December 2018)

Georgian Foreign Minister David Zalkaliani said that in the outgoing year, the country took a number of important steps towards the integration into NATO and the European Union.

According to the minister, in the coming year, the Georgian diplomatic agency will present to the government of the country the foreign policy strategy for the next three years.

Zalkaliani stressed that one of the main directions of foreign policy will be the "peaceful restoration" of the country's territorial integrity, TASS reports.
