Iran and Azerbaijan held the second joint commission on the Aras River water sources on Thursday in Azerbaijan's Nakhchivan Autonomous Republic.

An Iranian delegation headed by Isa Bozorgzade, the head of Joint Water Resources and Border Rivers in the Energy Ministry held talks with the Azeri officials, namely Asgar Asgarov, head of Irrigation and Water Supply Affairs of the republic.

The two sides signed a protocol on the sustainable use of water resources of the river, IRNA noted.

Referring to the first meeting in Baku earlier this year, Asgarov said, "This protocol is the result of our regular gatherings and will help build mutual ties."
