- 06.09.2019

Mehr News Agency (05 September 2019)

Iran and Slovenia held the third round of their political talks in Ljubljana on Thu. in the presence of Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister for Political Affairs Abbas Araghchi and Slovenian Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs Simona Lascar.

In this round of political talks, the two sides reviewed the last development of bilateral relations in political, economic and cultural arenas as well as regional and international issues such as Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) and developments in West Asia and the Persian Gulf.

Given the wide range of opportunities and capacities of the two countries, the two sides called for promoting the level of cooperation and broadening ties in various agricultural, foodstuff, medicine and tourism sectors.

Moreover, the two sides exchanged views on the negative consequences and challenges caused by unilateralism especially in exacerbation of crises in the region and the world, and highlighted their support for multilateralism.
