Eurasia Review has published an opinion, titled Fuse Lit On August 5, 2019, Detonates On July 12, 2020: Armenia-Azerbaijan Conflict Flares Up.

News.Az presents the opinion by Farid Shafiyev, Chairman of the Baku-based Center of International Relations and Adjunct Lecturer at ADA University.

Clashes between Armenian and Azerbaijani armed forces in Tovuz, a north-western border region of Azerbaijan, have once again manifested the fragility of the ceasefire between the two conflicting sides. However, this clash, probably the largest for the past two years, is no coincidence, but is the direct result of events that have been unfolding since March 2019.
