
LANDLOCKED CENTRAL ASIA NATIONS SHOW POTENTIAL BEYOND COMMODITIES, STUDY SAYS

-

29.07.2020

The Times of Central Asia (28 July 2020)

Bishkek

A United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) study highlights opportunities for the Central Asian nations Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan to diversify their exports and transform their commodity-driven economies, UNCTAD reported on its website.

Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan face economic challenges common to landlocked developing countries. But an UNCTAD study highlights how each can overcome geographical remoteness and transform the structures of their economies, which have become increasingly geared towards exporting commodities to their neighbors.

Click for more

Kaynak/Source: