Three main opposition blocs that won a slender victory in recent parliamentary elections in Montenegro on Wednesday pledged not to seek to withdraw recognition of Kosovo or change the countrys national symbols. The new ruling majority will also honor all current international commitments, such as membership of NATO.

Zdravko Krivokapic, leader of the pro-Serbian bloc For the Future of Montenegro, Dritan Abazovic, leader of the civic Black on White coalition and Peace is Our Nation coalition leader Aleksa Becic made these pledges as part of an agreement about the key obligations of the new government.

This agreement is confirmation that the new democratic government will be pro-European, pro-Western and pro-Montenegrin * There is no change to Montenegros foreign policy path, only its strengthening, Becic told a press conference.
