Deutsche Welle (18 September 2020)

Poland's ruling Law and Justice Party (PiS) said Friday it could form a minority government after its coalition partners voted against an animal welfare bill.

Senior PiS politician Marek Suski told TVN24 television that defiance by two junior partners had "ended the coalition."

PiS party leader in Parliament Ryszard Terlecki said the party would deliberate on Monday on how to proceed, but described the coalition as practically non-existent."
