Bosnia and Herzegovina handed over the remains of four victims of the 1992-95 war for official identification and burial in Serbia, while the Serbian authorities handed over the remains of a Bosnian citizen.

The exchange of the remains of five war victims took place on Thursday at the Raca border crossing between Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia.

Emza Fazlic, the spokesperson for the Bosnian Missing Persons Institute, said that the remains of four people exhumed in Bosnia and Herczegovina were handed over to the Serbian Missing Persons Commission because the families wanted them to be officially identified and buried in Serbia.
