Kazakhstans Defence Minister Nurlan Yermekbaev met with his Turkish counterpart Hulusi Akar, who arrived in Nur-Sultan on his first working visit, the correspondent NE reported on October 26.

We discussed issues related to the further expansion of cooperation in the field of defense between our countries. Since there is a very close dialogue and cooperation between the heads of our states at the presidential level, our work was quite easy. We discussed issues related to the implementation of previously reached agreements, Akar said at a briefing following negotiation.
