Armenian civilians, who could not leave Azerbaijan's liberated areas in the provided period, asked for additional time from the troops raising a white flag.

Armenian civilians and soldiers in the territories belonging to Azerbaijan continue to leave the region in line with the agreement that ended the clashes in Nagorno-Karabakh.

Despite some Armenians leaving the region torched houses, public buildings, and forests, the Azerbaijani soldiers allowed Armenians, who could not leave the liberated lands in time, to take extra time.
