The First President of Kazakhstan Nursultan Nazarbayev emphasized in his speech at the jubilee Congress that the Nur Otan party is today the main political force of the country.

The chairman of the Nur Otan party noted the key achievements of the countrys development during the years of independence.

In 30 years, Kazakhstan has achieved significant social and economic success, first of all due to the implementation of radical reforms focused on the market economy and modernization of the country. Market reforms, industrialization and the inflow of foreign investment have become the engines of productivity growth, and have ensured economic growth, significant increase in employment and reduction in social stratification in society, the Leader of the Nation said.
