
GIBRALTAR STILL HANGING AFTER BREXIT DEAL: SPANISH PM

- 25.12.2020

EurActiv (25 December 2020)

Madrid and London have yet to reach agreement on the status of Gibraltar, Spanish Prime Minister Pedro Sanchez said Thursday (24 December) after Britain and EU finally sealed a Brexit trade deal.

The easy flow of people and goods across the border from Spain which underpins the economy of Gibraltar, a tiny British territory on the southern tip of the Iberian Peninsula, risks ending when Britain leaves the EU at midnight on 31 December.

Spain and the United Kingdom are continuing dialogue to reach an accord on Gibraltar, Sanchez said on his Twitter account after hailing the accord between Brussels and London.
