Evan Liberty was reading in the top bunk of his cell one evening late last month when a prison supervisor delivered news he had hoped for.

"He says, Are you ready for this?" Liberty recalled. "I said, Uh, Im not sure. What is going on? He said, Presidential pardon. Pack your stuff."

Liberty is one of four former Blackwater contractors pardoned by President Donald Trump in one of Trump's final acts in office, freeing them from prison after a 2007 shooting rampage in Baghdad that killed more than a dozen Iraqi civilians.
