EurActiv (17 March 2021)

EU leaders will press the Commission to make swift progress in the establishment of sectoral data spaces as outlined in the executives landmark Data Strategy, draft European Council summit conclusions obtained by EURACTIV reveal.

Proposals put forward by the Commission last year include the creation of nine common EU data spaces across sectors including healthcare, agriculture, and energy, as a means to foster greater industrial data sharing.

And as part of European Council talks taking place next week, EU leaders are likely to press the Commission into making progress on the plans, the draft conclusions say.
