On a visit to Albania in March, Kosovos new prime minister, Albin Kurti, called on Albanians to vote for change as Kosovars did on February 14: Albanians deserve better, he said.

Kurti, an ethnic-Albanian along with around 90% of Kosovos 1.8 million population, urged voters to elect the members of his leftist-nationalist Vetevendosje movement who are running for seats in the Albanian parliament on April 25 on an anti-corruption mandate.
