US Secretary of State Antony Blinken has said the United States is concerned by China's increasingly aggressive actions directed at Taiwan and remains committed to ensuring peace and stability in the western Pacific region.

Blinken said on Sunday that the Biden administration is committed to ensuring that Taiwan has the ability to defend itself.

What we've seen, and what is of real concern to us, is increasingly aggressive actions by the government in Beijing directed at Taiwan, Blinken said during an interview on NBC programme Meet the Press.
