EurActiv (16 June 2021)

The European Parliament still hopes to reach an agreement on the EUs Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) reform during Portugals presidency of the Council of the EU, according to the chair of the assemblys agriculture committee.

In a debate in the European Parliaments agriculture committee on the state of play of CAP negotiations on Tuesday (15 June), MEP Norbert Lins announced that next week there will be new super trilogues to try to reach a final agreement during Portugals presidency that can be approved by ministers on 28 June.

Trilogues refer to meetings between the European Parliament and the Council of the European Union, mediated by the European Commission.
