VOA News (24 June 2021)

China said on Thursday it had filed a lawsuit at the World Trade Organization challenging Australias anti-dumping measures on a range of goods, marking further escalation in tensions between the two countries.

The suit □ regarding Chinese exports of train wheels, wind turbines and stainless-steel sinks □ comes a week after Canberra challenged Beijings crippling tariffs on Australian wine exports.

It aims to safeguard the legitimate rights and interests of Chinese companies, Chinese commerce ministry spokesperson Gao Feng said at a regular briefing Thursday.
