Iraq's national security Cabinet on Monday condemned the US airstrike that targeted one of the Hashd al-Shaabi militias (Popular Mobilization) on the border area with Syria, considering the strike "a blatant violation" to Iraq's sovereignty.

A statement following a security Cabinet emergency meeting, headed by Iraqi Prime Minister Mustafa al-Kadhimi, said Iraq will "study all legal options to prevent the repetition of such attacks."

The security Cabinet, the highest security body in Iraq, expressed its complete rejection to make Iraq a tit-for-tat place, in reference to the conflict between the US and Iran.
