Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan on Wednesday said that Armenia will take part in preliminary talks over the dangerous Ankara-proposed 3+3 scheme, which envisions the creation of a regional bloc with Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Russia, Iran and Turkey.

The scheme was proposed by Turkey's President Recep Tayyip Erdogan at the end of last year and immediately received the blessing of his Azerbaijani counterpart Ilham Aliyev.

Last month, Georgia made it abundantly clear that it will not participate in the scheme, saying that Tbilisi cannot work in alliance with Russia.
