AGERPRES (23 January 2022)

Minister of National Defense Vasile Dincu declared on Saturday that "Romania will not engage in any war at this moment", but made it clear that the country "must be prepared for the consequences of a potential conflict on the border of Ukraine".

"Romania will not engage in any war at this moment, it must be prepared only for the consequences of a potential conflict on the Ukrainian border," Dincu told private broadcaster Digi 24.
