A meeting of EU foreign ministers in Brussels is to discuss responses to a potential Russian invasion of Ukraine. US top diplomat Antony Blinken will join by videolink.

Foreign ministers from the European Union's 27-member states are meeting in Brussels on Monday in a bid to hammer out a response to a feared invasion of Ukraine by Russia.

The meeting, which will be joined by US Secretary of State Antony Blinken by videolink, comes as Washington has ordered families of its diplomats to leave Ukraine amid the crisis.
