A dozen ballistic missiles that hit northern Iraq's Erbil were launched from outside the country, the counter-terror unit of northern Iraq's Kurdish Regional Government (KRG) said Sunday.

The Anti-Terrorism Unit said in a statement on its official Facebook page that the attack was "directed from the east," and there was no loss of life.

The attack at 1 a.m. (2300 GMT) had 12 ballistic missiles targeting a neighborhood in the direction of the US Consulate.
