Israel's foreign minister condemns 'unjustified' invasion in a tour of Ukraine's neighbors, and says Israel has a 'moral duty' to take in more refugees at a visit to the Romania-Ukraine border.

Foreign Minister Yair Lapid condemned Russia's unjustified invasion of Ukraine on a visit to neighboring countries on Sunday, in one of Israel's most clear-cut criticisms of Moscow since war broke out over two weeks ago.

Lapid said Israel calls on Russia to stop the shooting and attacks and to solve the problems around the negotiating table, following a meeting with his Romanian counterpart, Bogdan Aurescu, in Bucharest, as part of a diplomatic lap in Romania and Slovakia.
