Ekathimerini (20 June 2022)

Foreign Minister Nikos Dendias spoke Sunday in favor of closer European Union relations in Egypt, a country of capital importance for Europe.

The Greek view is that Egypt is a country of capital importance for Europe. An EU partner and friend, with which we must develop our relations and support Egypt in its effort to deal with the great economic crisis, Dendias said as he arrived to attend the ninth session of the EU-Egypt Association Council.

Earlier Sunday, Dendias met with Egypt's Foreign Minister Sameh Shoukry in Athens. After having lunch, the two traveled together to Luxembourg.
