Chinese Ambassador to Iraq Cui Wei announced Wednesday that his country will help Iraq to increase its capacity in the field of development, while noting that cooperation between the two countries focuses on three axes.

Cui Wei said, during a meeting held on the Zoom platform, and attended by the Iraqi News Agency (INA), that "the Chinese government respects the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Iraqi side," noting that "China will not interfere in Iraq's internal affairs, and supports Iraq's decision to oppose interference in its internal affairs.

He pointed out, "The importance of developing bilateral relations between Iraq and China," noting that "all Chinese companies operating in Iraq aim to conduct cooperation with the Iraqi side, and not just conduct sales and purchases."
