Anadolu Agency (9 August 2022)

Hundreds of thousands of Syrians, who stay in refugee camps in Duhok and Erbil provinces of Iraq, cannot go back to their homes due to the presence of the YPG/PKK terrorist organization in Syria.

There are about 20 refugee camps within the borders of the city of Duhok. Of these, Syrian refugees remain in the camps of Domiz 1 and 2, Bardarash, Gavilan, and Acre.

Shivan Ali, from the Qamishli district of northeastern Syria and living in Duhok's Domiz camp over the past 11 years, is one of those who cannot return to his country because of the terror group.
