The sister of North Korean leader Kim Jong Un has rejected South Korea's "foolish" offers of economic help in exchange for denuclearisation steps.

Kim Yo Jong [] of the most-powerful officials in her brother's government, who oversees inter-Korean affairs — accused Seoul of recycling proposals that the North had already rejected.

She stressed in a commentary published by North Korean media this week that her country had no intentions of giving away its nuclear weapons and ballistic missiles program for economic cooperation.
