South China Morning Post (23 September 2022)

Fraught relations between Australia and China will be repaired only gradually, Canberras top diplomat warned on Thursday, after a rare meeting with her Chinese counterpart.

Australian Foreign Minister Penny Wong described her New York sit-down with State Councillor Wang Yi as constructive but cautioned against talk of a quick normalisation of ties.

I think it is a long road in which many steps will have to be taken by both parties to a more stable relationship, she said.
