Russian President Vladimir Putin has invited the leaders of Armenia and Azerbaijan, Nikol Pashinyan and Ilham Aliyev for a meeting in Russia.

Speaking at a meeting of the Council of CIS Heads of State in Astana on Friday, Putin recalled that he had repeatedly met in a trilateral format with Aliyev and Pashinyan.

I am pleased to invite the President of Azerbaijan and the Prime Minister of Armenia, we need to agree on a date and meet in Russia anywhere at any time, in Sochi, in St. Petersburg, in Moscow, he said.
