Its gotten cold in Europe, the economy is tanking and the natives are getting restless. Theres only one answer: Blame America.

Pointing across the Atlantic has long been a favorite diversionary tactic for Europes political elites when things start to get dicey on the Continent.

Whether its the war in Ukraine (Washington shouldnt have expanded NATO), natural disasters (too many American SUVs fueling climate change) or the demise of French as a lingua franca (cultureless Hollywood), America is inevitably the culprit.
