Russian Prime Minister Mikhail Mishustin said that a record was achieved in trade with Armenia, suggesting to start new projects and inviting Armenian entrepreneurs to work more actively in the Russian market, Interfax reported.

"The governmental level is actively working to strengthen trade and economic cooperation, and despite the difficult external situation, our cooperation is successfully developing," Mishustin said at a meeting with Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan in Almaty on Thursday.

According to him, Russia is a leading foreign trade partner and the main investor in Armenia's economy. "In January-November 2022, trade turnover grew by 77 percent compared to the same period last year, it exceeded $4 billion 100 million, which is a record for today in our mutual trade," the Russian government head stated.
