Daniel Suidani was known for his support of Taiwan, even after Honiara switched diplomatic allegiance to Beijing.

Daniel Suidani, a vocal critic of China and leader of the Solomon Islands largest province, has been removed from office after a no-confidence vote in the provincial legislature, according to Australias public broadcaster ABC.

Legislators brought the vote after accusing Suidani, premier of Malaita province in the Pacific Islands nation, of misappropriating funds, according to ABC.
