Milorad Kotur, a former member of the reservist police force at the Public Security Station in Bosanska Krupa in north-west Bosnia and Herzegovina, told Belgrade Higher Court on Friday at the start of his trial that his superior ordered the shooting of around 40 civilian prisoners.

Kotur is accused of participating in the killing of 51 people in the village of Donji Dubovik near Bosanska Krupa in two separate incidents in July and August 1992. The victims of the first incident were civilians who were being held at the Omarska detention camp.
