New panels efforts to counter Beijing are likely to put pressure on US President Joe Biden to take a firmer line.

The chair of a new bipartisan committee on China in the United States House of Representatives has framed the rivalry between the US and China as an existential struggle at the panels first hearing.

The meeting of the committee – formally known as the House of Representatives Select Committee on the Strategic Competition Between the United States and the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) – comes amid heightened tension between Beijing and Washington after a suspected Chinese spy balloon flying over North America was shot down.
