Serbia has agreed to supply weapons to Ukraine, according to one of the secret reports leaked on the Internet, reports Reuters. The leak of information, the authenticity of which cannot be independently verified, was dubbed by the media as "Pentagonleaks".

A chart of the responses of 38 European governments to Ukraine's request for military aid shows that Serbia has refused to train Ukrainian soldiers but has committed to sending weapons or even already provided military aid. Serbia is also said to have the political will and military capability to supply arms to Kyiv in the future, despite refusing to sanction Russia over its invasion of Ukraine.
