Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov has accused the West of insincerity in the efforts to help reach a peaceful settlement between Armenia and Azerbaijan.

Unfortunately, in what the United States is doing now, and in what the European Union is doing, we no longer see a desire to help negotiate, but a desire to penetrate the region, a desire to suppress the legitimate interests of the Russian Federation and a desire to establish themselves as forces that will play almost a decisive role here, Lavrov told reporters following a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the Collective Security Treaty Organization (CSTO), TASS reports.
