Kazakhstan and Georgia laid a capsule on the site of the future global infrastructure facility in the Georgian port city of Poti that is supposed to increase the volume of freight traffic on the Trans-Caspian International Transport Route (TITR), reported the Foreign Ministrys press service on Aug. 11.

The construction of the port terminal will be the first Kazakh infrastructure project implemented in Poti, one of the largest ports in Georgia, which is a reference point on the TITR route, said Timur Karabayev, chair of the PTC Holding, a company that will construct the facility.
