The only goal of the US in the South Caucasus, in the relationship between Armenia and Azerbaijan, is to ensure lasting peace and stability, US State Department Spokesman Matthew Miller said during a briefing on October 10, News.az reports.

He also emphasized the importance of ensuring that the humanitarian needs and rights of the people in Karabakh are protected.

The UN mission visited Azerbaijan's Karabakh on October 1 to familiarize with the situation on the ground and determine the humanitarian needs of the residents. The mission included representatives of various UN agencies.
