A quest for historic redemption and economic opportunity drives Austria closer to Israel.

It was the kind of foxhole moment the Israelis believed would reveal who their true friends are.

As voting got underway at the United Nations on October 27 on a resolution calling for a ceasefire in Gaza, it was clear that Israel, which opposed the measure, faced an uphill battle. Shortly before the tally, countries Israel counted among its closest allies, including Germany and Canada, jumped ship, fearing a backlash if they rejected the resolution.
