The Iraqi President, Abdul Latif Rashid, confirmed on Tuesday that the war on Gaza negatively affected regional stability.

Rashid's remarks took place during his meeting with the US Ambassador to Iraq, Alina Romanowski, and her accompanying delegation, where they discussed the latest security developments in Iraq and the region, according to a statement released by the Iraqi Presidency.

The Iraqi President addressed the situation of the international coalition forces in Iraq, indicating that their existence in the country must be limited to supporting Iraqi security forces in the areas of training and consultation provision.
